"A chair factory—jump out and take a look."
"Chair factory! I want no chair factories. I tell you again, I've got business on the Cherry Valley Turnpike, and can't fool my time looking at rat-tan." The protest, however, did no good. The old gent was bundled out. He was marched into the receiving room, where he was "astonished past belief."-He was undressed, and before he could enter a protest, was soused into a bathing tub, rubbed down with a soft brick, and installed in "the cussedest pair and sent to the shop for a job of work. Here his indignation broke out a fresh, and was rapidly leading to a rebellion, when one of the keepers proposed to give him "a showering." Instead of that he was locked up in a cell. This finished up the business on Tuesday evening. On Wednesday, Mr. Pillsbury was down street, called at the Police Office, and entered into conversation with Whalen. "Got a queer old customer at the Penitentiary!" "Who is he ?"

"That old fellow I took up yesterday." "What! the old man with the bundle, who sat in the back part of the wagon ?"

> From Blackwood's Magazine. A London Dog-Stealing Story.

A celebrated painter of animals in London had painted the portrait of a splendid Newfoundland dog, but he strayed or was stolen as he was returning from his last sitting. His owner was inconsolable; but "Better drink, old fellow," continued he. "Your knowing the distinguished artist's large and intimate quor is getting cold, and you look as if you was acquaintance with persons who confidently concern themselves with other people's dogs, repaired to him No answer being given, York finished the pitcher, for advice, and authorized him to offer ten pounds reward for the recovery of the missing favorite .-The artist soon put himself in communication with "To be sure I did. Didn't you hear the b-b-bell ?" one of the "dog fanciers," who asked him what kind of a dog it was? "Why," said he, "look here, this is his picture. Should you know him again ?"

The fellow gazed at the vividly faithful representation for a minute or two intently and then said :
